A Personal Word

The writer has been familiar with the herds of L. C. Oloff & Sons, Ireton, Iowa, and R. H. Gamble & Sons, Hawarden, Iowa, for many years and studied the production from both herds. Oloff & Sons have exhibited at the leading fairs of this western section for many years and won worthy and complimentary honors on Oloff-bred cattle. It was in 1924 at the Iowa State Fair that they exhibited Lady Buttercup bred by them and won junior championship honors. The herd bulls used on a splendid lot of producing matrons have been selected with the utmost care and are sired by bulls of show-yard character. The Gamble & Sons herd has not been exhibited as extensively, but several of the better Association sales have found cattle from the Gamble consignment winning grand champion trophies and topping the sales. I have watched this firm make admirable selections from a number of the leading herds of the country when a few foundation cows were needed until today one of the richest-bred lot of good honest breeding Scotch cattle in the state of Iowa is found on the Gamble & Sons' farm. They have been equally careful in selecting sires to mate to their valuable herd and always used herd bulls from well-known herds and by renowned sires. The integrity and business methods employed by both firms who will join forces in making this sale on October 7th are worthy of the highest praise and those who desire to deal with them are assured of the fairest treatment. They have drawn deep into both herds and selected a class of cattle which are a credit to them as breeders and the kind that will help to improve the breed and herds into which they go. Prospective purchasers of Shorthorn cattle in recent years have given more consideration to the cattle produced by the seller and the integrity of the owner, and the writer can assure anyone interested that they will be more than pleased with the sale offering on October 7th. It is an offering produced on the Oloff-Gamble farms, of good dependable Scotch breeding representing a number of sires that have been material in helping to improve Shorthorn cattle in Iowa. They are the sort that will prove beneficial to our best cattlemen and we can heartily recommend them.—J. E. Halsey of The Iowa Homestead.

With the interest in good Shorthorn cattle on the increase, as it surely has been in the past year, there appears a more marked tendency than ever on the part of prospective buyers to make their selections from breeding establishments which have been known for many years for consistent production rather than years of "peddling and speculation." It is to such herds as L. C. Oloff & Son and R. H. Gamble & Sons, that seekers of good Shorthorns may look for honest production. The men back of both herds are well known for their integrity and their proven ability to produce Shorthorns that are correct in every way. Both can be classed among our foremost breeding establishments, and both herds have remarkable records for cleanliness. These two firms have chosen this fall as the proper time to join forces in marketing a select group of cattle of their own breeding. A study of their catalog will reveal the fact that great herd bulls have been used in these herds, crossed on females of choice Scotch breeding and proper individuality. Their offspring has been of a kind that has found ready sale. The present offering is made up of the kind of cattle that will interest those very men who are seeking to improve their herds. Show cattle with brilliant records are listed. Both firms have enjoyed a good trade for many years and it is a pleasure to recommend the cattle they are selling on October 7th.—Hal Longley of The Shorthorn World.
